

Modeling the development of brain tumors in mice

Petter Säterskog, Department of Cell and Molecular Biology, Karolinska Institutet

We introduce a dataset obtained from mice with induced oligodendroglioma, a type of brain cancer. We show how this data is, step by step, distilled into forms that are useful for modeling and how the models inform us on further measurements that are necessary for understanding the development of tumors.