GUIDELINES FOR ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSIONS

At a roundtable discussion, the participants will discuss a pedagogical idea, a method, a teaching and learning experience, or other topic related to teaching and learning in higher education. The presenter makes sure all participants can take part in the discussion.

Planning your roundtable discussion

- A 30-minute slot is allocated to your roundtable discussion. The allocated time includes a maximum of 5 minutes introduction to your topic and the specific questions to be discussed. Please plan your session to fit the schedule.

- If you would like to hand out material, please make sure everything is printed in advance, as there will be limited possibilities to produce presentation materials at the conference venue.
